Deliverables:

1. The common conventions, themes, and consistencies among the job advertisements start with the job title, name of company, city, and state of the company. Then, they describe the roles, responsibilities, qualifications, seniority level, and employment type of the job. The job roles may provide the company's background, culture, and work environment. In this job description research, I learned which types of graphic design jobs are available and what it takes to qualify and compete.
2. I am targeting entry-level, full-time jobs in graphic design with companies which provide products or services I can relate to.

3 Portfolios (Behance.net)

1. NORN : PRESENT WORLD by Daniel Liang (Concept Artist from Taiwan)
  - "NORN: PRESENT WORLD" is a graduation concept art project which is made by Daniel Liang, who collaborated with his friend, Eroz Young. Below are some of his concept art done for this project based on Eroz's original script.

3. KAORI TEA | Branding & Packaging by Tuyla Z (Graphic Designer from Brazil)
  - “KAORI TEA” is a branding & packaging-type of graphic design that is made by Tuyla Z. It is a brand of special teas, fresh & tasty. These teas are made of herbs and special flowers. It aims to bring tranquility and peace for someone who is drinking. One of the meanings of the Japanese name “Kaori” is the most scented flower, that’s why the graphic symbol is based on a petal of flowers with a simplified form. As it is a young and modern brand, its colors bring happiness and relaxation.

Deliverables:

1. The common themes and consistencies among the portfolios are the presentation, introduction, promotion, and providing examples of each designer’s artwork. I’ve learned from this exercise the value of creating an individual portfolio to promote one’s professional artwork online.
2. Portfolio formats:
  - Title of portfolio and Artist’s name
  - Introduction to purpose and theme of portfolio
  - Sample artworks with labels
  - Ending credits, date of work and artist’s website
3. Mastery of design apps, consistent themes, and artistic talent. In the example portfolio of Kaori Tea, the artist showcased consistent theme and color schemes in branding and packaging of various Kaori Teas.

3. 2020 Festival - Brand Identity by Broklin Onjei for Creative Invention Studio (Graphic Designer)
  - 2020 Music & Arts Festival is a proposed flyer design created by Broklin Onjei for Creative Invention Studio. It is made for the upcoming event in November 2020. These flyer designs feature abstract contemporary modern geometric shapes with trendy and fashion colors to reach a modern audience.

Link:

<https://dribbble.com/shots/9649617-2020-Festival-Brand-Identity>

Deliverables:

1. In the first image, “Learning App concept” I like how this concept art features “The art of Geometric shapes” session. This concept artwork gives the target participants how Graphic designers define shape, what is meant by geometric shapes, and how they are used to convey specific information in a design composition. A background in, or experience with Architectural design and experience in understanding Color theory, Perspective, and Anatomy, as well as a firm grasp on dramatic lighting is required.
2. In the second image, “Artist” features a digital drawing of a man, who is proud of his beautiful abstract painting. This artwork is made by a Freelance artist. I like how this is a good example of an Indie work in general. Experience in Adobe Creative Suite with proficiency in Illustrator, Photoshop, and Indesign is required.
3. In the third image, “2020 Festival” is a proposed flyer design made by a Graphic designer. This proposed flyer shows a fun concept identity created by the graphic designer for an upcoming in November. It used abstract contemporary modern geometric shapes with trendy and fashionable colors to reach the audience. Experience in Adobe Creative Suite with proficiency in Illustrator, Photoshop, and Indesign is required.
